CHRISTMAS ON NUTCRACKER COURT

Dafina Trade Paperback

September 2011

ISBN 978-0-7582-3895-5

$15.00

Celebrate Christmas in Fairbrook, where friendship, faith and some extra-special providence will make it a holiday to remember.

Fairbrook is a town tailor-made for Christmas, with beautiful old houses dotting quaintly named streets like Sugar Plum Lane and Nutcracker Court. But not everyone is eager for the holidays to arrive. Cash-strapped single mom Carly Westbrook worries about providing a merry Christmas for her boys. It doesn't help that they've been having run-ins with neighbor Max Tolliver, an aspiring novelist stricken with writer's block. Then there's Grant Barrows, a formerly wealthy businessman whose heart seems to have shrunk along with his bank balance.

Some folks are still determined to make the season sparkle. Like The Diamond Lils, a ladies group who meet weekly to play poker and socialize. This year, they're looking to do some good deeds—and wealthy widow Lynette thinks that a little matchmaking between Grant and Carly would be a perfect place to start.

Yet Christmas is a season for surprises. And sometimes, the gifts we never expected turn out to be the most precious of all . . .

ENTERTAINING ANGELS

Kensington Books Mass Market Paperback

January 2011

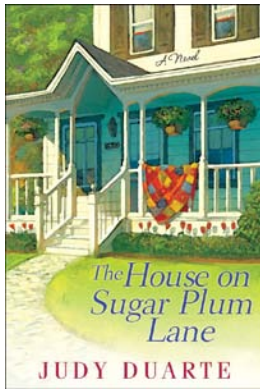

ISBN 978-0-7582-5879-3

$6.99

Return to Mulberry Park, where courage, love, and forgiveness work miracles—with a little angelic intervention.

Meet a ball player turned pastor who questions his call to the ministry. A waitress whose college aspirations dim as she cares for her fatherless son and invalid grandmother. An engaged woman harboring a guilty secret. A pregnant teen seeking work and secretly living in a tree house. A childless couple who operate a community soup kitchen.

Thanks to a wise, homeless man named Jesse, these individuals discover that dreams, like dandelion seeds scattered in the wind, can take flight and blossom in astonishing ways.

THE HOUSE ON SUGAR PLUM LANE

Kensington Books Trade Paperback

April 2010

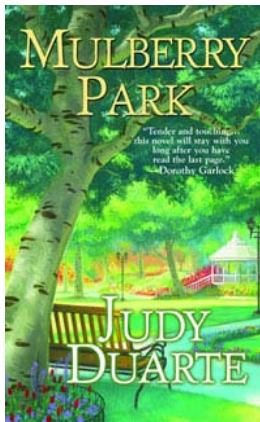

ISBN 978-0-7582-3894-8

$15.00

The House on Sugar Plum Lane* possesses the finest furnishings: new beginnings, second chances, faith and family.

The beautiful Victorian house that Amy Masterson decides to rent, fully furnished, is more than just a place to start over with her young daughter. When Amy learns that the three-story house on Sugar Plum Lane belonged to her great-grandmother, Eleanor Rucker, who Amy's mother had been searching for until her recent death, she hopes she can find a window into the past her mother never found.

As Amy settles into Fairbrook, she's stunned to learn that Ellie Rucker still lives on Sugar Plum Lane, cared for by Amy's neighbor, Maria. But Ellie's mind is failing rapidly, her memories fading with each passing day. She shows no hint of recognition when her great-granddaughter introduces herself, and Amy is heartbroken at the chance they've both missed. But it's never too late to hope—or to trust in bonds of love that, though they cannot be seen, can never be broken . . .

MULBERRY PARK

Kensington Books Mass Market Paperback

March 2010

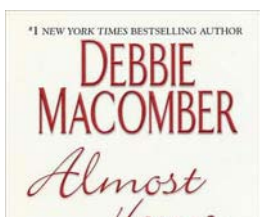

ISBN 978-0-7582-4153-5

$6.99

A child's letter to God sets off a chain of events that will change the lives of seven strangers in this inspirational single-title debut.

Each day after work, Claire Harper jogs in Mulberry Park, hoping to find a respite from the grief that has haunted her since her young son's death. It's a futile effort—until the day she finds a letter to God written by a seven-year-old girl named Analisa.

On impulse, Claire writes back, and Analisa's letters gradually draw Claire into the companionship of other Mulberry Park regulars—all, in their own way, in need of comfort. And as friendships grow, sorrows lift, and lives and hearts connect, each will discover just how far and how high one simple letter can reach.
